

FROM POINTS AROUND.

HAMILTON.—T. D. Black, of Indianapolis, formerly of Hamilton, is in the city.

"The Two Orphans" will be played at the Opera-house tonight.

Mrs. Dr. Wyman, formerly of this city, died at Topeka, Kas., on the 15th inst.

No new cases of small-pox have been reported to the Health Officer.

Quite a number of the teachers in the Public schools have signed their intention of attending the Central State Teachers' Association, to be held in Xenia on the 29th and 30th inst.

Travel on the street cars is on the increase.

AVONDALE.—Three hundred hard-women were handsomely lunched at Boman's.

An adjourned meeting of the Village Council is announced for next Monday evening; the special business being the passage of the assessment ordinance for the improvement of Meigs avenue.

A meeting of the members of the Lyceum will be held this evening in the Council Chamber, for reorganization and making arrangements for the ensuing season.

The contract for the construction of a plank sidewalk on the north side of South Creek avenue was awarded to Henry Harwood, of nineteen and a half cents per lineal foot.

During the present week ground has been broken for twelve new residences in the village. Avondale was never in a more prosperous condition.

A grand social party for the benefit of St. Andrew's Church is announced for the 19th prox., at Avon Hall.

COVINGTON.—On last Thursday night a stranger came to the house of Bernard Dressman, on Washington street, and complained of not feeling well. He was then sent to St. Elizabeth's Hospital, where he died very suddenly yesterday afternoon. Coroner McGowan held an inquest and the jury rendered a verdict of heart disease.

Messrs. Henry Drexellius and Wm. Goebel left for Louisville last night as witnesses to attend the trial of the proprietors of Willow Run distillery.

The water races are rapidly coming in together with the $1 delinquent penalty.

Hon. Joseph H. Lewis and his wife will be celebrated their wedding at Arbeiter Hall next Tuesday evening.

It is said that thieves entered the house of Deputy United States Collector Bowen a few nights ago. Mr. Bowen is absent from the city, therefore the thieves have it all to themselves.

Mrs. Elizabeth L. Comstock, of the Society of Friends, from Michigan, will deliver a lecture on Temperance, under the auspices of the Woman's Temperance League, at Odd-fellows' Hall Sunday afternoon. All are invited, especially the young.

Marriage licenses for the past week: Peter Shearer and Barbara Mayleben, Herman Kohorst and Frances Neeler, Edward Colston and Sallie Stevenson, Henry Giese and Mary Shepler, Wm. H. Stewart and Anna N. Sanders, H. J. Rutledge and Eliza Reed, John Tatten and Elizabeth A. Leffingwell, John Michaels and Lizzie Tiemer, John Tunning and Christian Keen, Owen Henry and Annie O'Neil.

Two men, accompanied by Officer McKelvey, were in the morning sent over to the Cincinnati for trial upon the charge of breaking the seal on one of the freight cars on the Short-line railroad. The men, it is thought, were merely seeking a place of shelter for the night.

Thomas Woods returned from Williamsstown this morning, where it is supposed he had been in the company of Billy and his Honor did but little business this morning. The only transgressor of the high law of Kentucky was Kate Williams, accompanied by a small "peddle" that irked about the Court-room while Billy smiled and his Honor dealt out stern justice to the unfortunate Kate, for which $5 is the amount. She went below in default of liquidation.

A number of boys from the Seventh-street school are in the habit of going over to the Sister's School, on Fifth street, and "flirting" with the small girls. The Sisters have requested them at different times to stop, but without success. A list of names has been made out and handed to us, and, if the thing is not stopped, we will have to publish them.

NEWPORT.—The Columbia-street Presbyterian Church, of which the Rev. H. W. Taylor has been the pastor for over five years, has shown a commendable spirit of enterprise in the thorough improvement and reuniting of their church.

They have put on a new roof, remodeled the windows, making them a beautiful Gothic, filled with stained and figured glass; painted the ceiling and walls, altered and repainted the pews, and the chandeliers and other gas fixtures rebranded. And now the ladies propose putting down a new carpet.

Those improvements have made this church very pleasant and attractive—as much so as any one in the city.

They have also recently introduced the new Hymnal, which adds much to the service of praise.

The church will be open for public worship next Sabbath morning. All are welcome.

A meeting at the Court house, to discuss the propriety of subscribing $500,000 to the Kentucky and Great Western railroad, is creating considerable interest.

Major General H. G. Thompson arrived at the Barracks yesterday, to attend a court martial as witness.

The question as to whether we will have a night school will be discussed at the meeting of the Board of Education Monday night.

A young German named Smith, who has been living with his friends in this city since his arrival from the old country about a year ago, has been missing for several days. His friends are uneasy about him.

It is asserted by a morning "luminary" that a "Green Back Club" is to be organized with such men as Colonel R. W. Nelson and Jessie Arthur at the head of it.

A large and select party of friends gathered at the residence of Captain Tom Williams, on York street, last night. After an hour's social chat, the soul-inspiring strains from Feine's excellent string band started all at tripping the light fantastic too. At 12 o'clock the parties were invited into an adjoining room, where a luxurious repast awaited them.

The young ladies presided at the tables while the gallant boys partook freely of the friends. After eating and drinking to the health, happiness and prosperity of the "Worthy Gaiety," a few quadrilles wound up the evening's entertainment, and the parties returned to their respective homes, well pleased with their evening's enjoyment.

WASHINGTON, C. H., O.—The Presbyterian Synod, of Cincinnati, opened its forty-sixth annual session last night in the Presbyterian Church, with a sermon by the last Moderator, Rev. W. Calhoun, of Toronto, O.

The discussion was founded on Isaiah, chap. 1, verse 5, and presented an able discussion of the "Sins of the Age and the Gospel Remedy." The church was crowded by an appreciative audience, and the discourse was heard with marked attention. At the close of the sermon the Synod was constituted. Rev. W. H. James, of the Cincinnati Presbytery, was unanimously chosen Moderator, and Rev. H. A. Keicham, of the Presbytery of Portsmouth, clerk. The Committee of Arrangements reported the order of exercises, and the session closed with prayer by Rev. B. W. Child-law.

The Synod embraces the cities of Dayton, Portsmouth, Chillicothe and Cincinnati. It numbers 159 churches and 154 Ministers. The pastor and a ruling elder represent each church and congregation. The attendance of Ministers and laymen is unusually large, and much interest is shown by the citizens, and their hospitality is unbounded. At 9 A. M. the Synod assembled and spent a half hour in devotional exercises, then proceeded to the usual routine of business.

LEXINGTON, KY.—Doctor Snedaker returned from Covington yesterday, whither he had gone to attend a meeting of the Covington Psycho-Philosophic Society.

The young men connected with the Short-street Baptist Church have formed a Visiting Committee, two of whom sit up every night with Mr. Samuel Martin, now prostrated with a serious illness.

Mr. Michael McCarty, Mayor and Patriarch of Irishtown, will probably succeed Mr. John H. Cleary in the next Council.

The Japanese troupe are expected Monday evening. The counterpart of the Chinese are always here.

The young men of Lexington, feeling weariness of idleness, are forming a Chess Club to enable them to kill time.

A man named Taylor, living near Richmond, accidentally shot himself while hunting, on Wednesday, and soon after died.

A barn on the farm of Mr. A. Douglas, two miles distant on the Harrodsburg pike, was burned at an early hour on Thursday morning. A horse perished in the flames.

An Australian gentleman, J. Rutledge, Esq., is here buying cattle and colts for shipment to that country.

Mr. Caldwell, of Louisville, the last out for United States Senator, is said to be "heavy timber." "The last shall be first."

A student from our Agricultural College walked into a city drug store and asked for five cents worth of pharmacy. Seeing the word "pharmacy" on the sign, he thought it was something new.

Mr. A. H. Davenport, living five miles distant on the Richmond pike, has a sheep on his farm that walks altogether on its front legs.

The County Poor-house has twenty-two inmates, four of whom are supported by the city of Lexington, which pays $100 a year for each pauper sent by the city. The institution is self-supporting, and has a surplus of $900, a part of which the Commissioners intend expending in building an ice-house on the farm.

An interesting church social was held last evening at the residence of Rev. Woolfolk, East Third street.

LUDLOW, KY.—We regret to note the severe illness of Councilman Bentley.

Mr. Seth Folger, one of the oldest of Western pioneers, and a highly respected citizen of this city, died on last Thursday morning.

City Council met in regular session last Thursday evening, President Savage in the chair, and a quorum present; also a large audience of citizens, this being the night on which Nick Brown intended making an effort to obtain a license to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what had become of "Temperance Council" would make of his absurd expectations, but, lo, and behold "Man's inhumanity to man," times of late have changed, and so have our temperance friends. The proceedings of this august body will show. The Standing Committee producing no business, the able monthly reports of the City Treasurer and Assessor were read and received; bills amounting to several hundred dollars ordered paid, and just at twenty minutes past nine o'clock the school-door, the "important business" that had caused so much buttonholing, whispering and ear-chewing during the evening, came up to the President handing a badly-soiled petition to the Clerk to read, a duty that that youthful functionary did with alacrity; when, on motion, by grace, so long as the petition be received and a license granted and seconded by Nixon, the good people were astonished, and now that this wicked measure was fairly and squarely before the house, the good people would be the next day, and in order to sell beer and whisky in his grand saloon, the good people turned out strong, just to see what